

Each year of the three-year cycle, the gospel of the second Sunday of Lent tells of the Transfiguration. This year we have Luke's account which presents this incident as Jesus instructs his disciples – preparing them for his journey to Jerusalem to meet his fate. The liturgical tradition echoes this outlook, inviting us to learn the lessons of this mysterious incident as we begin our journey of Lent. In Luke's account, in the verses immediately preceding, Jesus has warned the apostles of what lies ahead: "The Son of Man will be rejected and put to death; more than that, everyone who wants to be his follower 'must take up his cross every day and follow him' (9.22-23). Luke's account clearly has these warnings in mind. It is filled with reassurance for the chosen followers Jesus has brought up the mountain with him. Moses and Elijah (representing the Law and the Prophets, the great bearers of old Israel's hopes) are conversing with Jesus concerning 'his passing which he was to accomplish in Jerusalem' (the destiny of Israel was established in the original Passover and Exodus; in what lies ahead, this great destiny is to reach its final moment – as the shadows of the old order give way to the reality they prefigure, the Paschal Mystery). From the 'cloud', so often a symbol of God's presence in the first Exodus, the voice of the Father confirms what Jesus has told them of this new Passover: "This is my Son, the Chosen One. Listen to him."

They were speaking of the passing which he was to accomplish in Jerusalem

As he tells the story of Jesus, Luke often emphasises the place of prayer in our Christian life. The Transfiguration took place in a moment of prayer; Jesus had taken the chosen apostles 'up the mountain to pray'. There he communed with the eternal Father, readying himself for the mission he was soon to accomplish for the life of the world. As we make the journey of Lent, this example of his – making himself truly our brother and companion – should inspire us to make the journey with him, eager to give ourselves more fully to that personal mission to which the eternal Father has called us – in our families, our parish community and the broader world.

Paul's exhortation to the Philippians is along these lines. The Easter celebration we look forward to reminds us of our final 'homeland'; to share in all that lies in store for us, we will be transformed by the power through which our Saviour brought the whole universe into existence. The rationale of the Liturgy's choice of Old Testament passages during Lent is different from that of the Sundays of the year – chosen because they chime in with the theme of the gospel. The Paschal Mystery is the final climax of God's saving interventions. Each Sunday in Lent, therefore, a great event of God's saving history is recalled, reminding us of the one great story told in the Scriptures. Today it is the Lord's promise to Abraham, made according to a strange old ritual whereby earthly rulers confirmed their commitment to their subjects by oath.

Peter, John and James had a mountaintop experience with Jesus by witnessing His transfiguration. We too can have a mountaintop experience when we open our minds and hearts to following God's Will for our lives.

OLS Pancake Day (yes, there were blueberries) yields $2,226 for ShareLife

Thanks to all 48 volunteers who helped make this annual event such a success! Thanks also to the many parishioners and visitors who came out to enjoy our pancake feast; a wonderful evening was enjoyed by all! The 50/50 draw was won by minister of hospitality Don Buckley, who promptly donated his winnings in memory of his father, Frank, who recently passed away. Coincidentally, Frank was very active in assisting Archbishop Phillip Pocock in his organizing efforts for ShareLife in the 1970s – so this was a touching gift from Don. The large gift basket was won by Michael Bahr. Thanks also to our silent donors who provided much of the food and ingredients for the event! If you missed out this year, be sure and join us on Feb. 28, 2017!

Working wonders for those entering the priesthood...

"I am aware that what is given to me here is because of the generosity of many benefactors, including ShareLife, to whom I am very grateful. Last year, I graduated from Philosophy at St. Philip Neri Oratory summa cum laude, and this would not have been possible without the contribution of many benefactors. I am sure that whatever is given to me is for the sake of the mission that the Lord is preparing for me, and I thank ShareLife for their generous contribution to the work that God has prepared for me." —Simon Ibrahim, Redemptoris Mater seminarian

At ShareLife-funded agencies such as Serra House, St. Augustine's and Redemptoris Mater Seminaries, individuals undergo extensive theological education and practical field training. Through ShareLife, you are helping to sustain vocations for the priesthood and inspire discernment for God's call. Last year ShareLife helped support 80 seminarians in their formation studies.

Sunday, March 13 is ShareLife Sunday. Give generously. You can work wonders!

"Ten more commandments" to follow in life: #3. Friendship is like a book. It takes few seconds to burn, but it takes years to write.

COMMUNITY

Tabernacle Sponsor Needed Please contact the office if you can help

Our beautiful tabernacle has served us well for the last 27,448+ days (that's 75 years and a bit!) and the finish is certainly showing its age. We are looking for an individual or family to sponsor the refinishing of the tabernacle; the cost is estimated at $6,000. Thank you!
